

Women's Studies Journal

Aotearoa/New Zealand

Volume 34 Issue 1/2

The newly-formed Lesbian Avengers were among the Rainbow people protesting the visit of Zimbabwe's anti-gay President Robert Mugabe in November 1995. The rally was organised by the Auckland Pride Centre (APC) following a request from the Gay and Lesbian Association of Zimbabwe. APC Manager Rosemary Segedin, centre, holds a megaphone.

Contents

3 Editorial

Caroline Blyth, Kirsten Locke, Yvonne Underhill-Sem, and Suzanne Woodward

Research reports

5 Doing family and fathering in Aotearoa/New Zealand: A community-based study with refugee-background men

Louise Humpage, Jay Marlowe, Genevieve Grava, Kiri West, Abann Yor, Gatluak Chaol, Jean-Pierre Karabadogomba, Jeffrey Pau and Selvahamar Sivanathan

22 Women's experiences of medical miss-diagnosis: How does gender matter in healthcare settings?

Jessica Thompson and Denise Blake

37 Assessing the employee status of women in the city of Cape Town, South Africa

Elaine Sinden

Articles: Queer lives, queer communities

48 'Oh my god, I'm home': Lesbian nightlife in 1990s central Auckland

Harriet Winn

59 That was then, this is now: Identity in the Auckland lesbian community

Sarah Buxton

68 Wellington's 'Drag Kings': Comedy, cabaret and community

Meghan Williams

76 'And every word a lie': Samoan gender-divergent communities, language and epistemic violence

Luka Leleiga Lim-Bunnin

92 Overlooked, forgotten, avoided: The LGBT community and public art

Elizabeth Newton-Jackson

107 'Non-monogamy is the hardest thing to disclose': Expressions of gender, sexuality, and relationships on the university campus

Juliana Brown

Articles

116 A personal encounter with purity culture: Evangelical Christian schooling in Aotearoa/New Zealand

Olivia Stanley

130 Pushpamala: A performative deconstruction of the typography of Indigenous women through a postcolonial lens

Katja Phutaraksa Neef

Interviews

137 'Little paroxysms of rage': A conversation about academia and feminism with Professor Alison Jones

Kirsten Locke, Charlotte Johnson, and Alison Jones

149 Decolonising white feminism in Aotearoa/New Zealand: An interview with Anjum Rahman

Kirsten Locke, Anjum Rahman, and Charlotte Johnson

161 Decolonising white feminism: A response to Anjum Rahman

Nishhza Thiruselvam